

Dear Parents and Carers,

I would like to introduce to our new Parent Focus Workshops. These are weekly sessions designed to help you to support your child to get to university, or a real alternative.

We have designed a programme that covers the Woodfields approach to behaviour, homework, learning, attendance and other important topics. Within the sessions you can ask us any questions about these approaches in school; and we will work together so we can share approaches that will support your child at home. The collaboration between home and school is a vital part of raising and sharing our high expectations.

The First Parent Focus Workshop will take place Wednesday 6th December 2023, 16:30-17:30. We will meet at reception, with the focus being Homework booklets, mastery quizzes and knowledge organisers. While you are welcome to arrive on the evening, it would be helpful if you could let us know by filling in this form:
