Dear Parents/Carers,

All scholars will take part in an assembly about the impact of knife crime on Thursday 10th October 2024. The assemblies will be delivered by Alison Cope, a well-established Anti-Violence campaigner.

One of our main priorities at Woodfields is to safeguard scholars by providing education on important issues that will enable them to stay safe, both in the community and nationally across the United Kingdom. One such topic that is frequently discussed both online and in the media is knife crime. With recent initiatives of banning orders and amnesties, we have taken action to secure a very impactful intervention on the topic.

The reason for this letter is to give you the opportunity to access Alison's website in advance of the event:

Her website outlines the fantastic work she does with young people and to give advanced notice that this is, by design a serious and thought-provoking session.

Should you wish to discuss this further, please email myself directly Richard.ayres@astreawoodfields.org or contact your child's relevant pastoral leader.

Yours Faithfully
